A LETTER FROM OUR PUBLISHER

IMAGE BY JULIE SOEFER PHOTOGRAPHY

The Montrose gem has been winning hearts since James Beard Award-Winning chef Chris Shepherd opened its doors. Now, plans have been announced to shut those doors, rebrand, and re-open in a new location as UB Preserv. Houston will say farewell to Underbelly in March, so hurry over to enjoy this beloved concept before, like 2017, it transforms into something new.

Liberty Kitchen

Welcome to Houston. As you know, our city was devastated by Hurricane Harvey this summer, affecting everyone from our distribution partners to our team. As we all recuperated and rebuilt, we stepped out of our typical quarterly distribution cycle. We are proud to present this special issue, a testimony to teamwork that celebrates Houston as never before.

Start 2018 on your own terms: Exclusively on January 1, devour the over-the-top Slightly Stoopid “Commitment” Burger, a sandwich unmatched in size that begins with a Meats by Linz Prime-Rib/Brisket Grind Patty and is stacked with chicken fried sugar-cured bacon, American cheese, pimento cheese dip, deviled egg, BRC’s burger sauce, Eddie’s mustard pickle jalapeño sizzle, onion, lettuce, avocado oil-marinated tomato, and surrounded by a Kaiser onion-poppy bun. The $39.18 burger comes with a side of Kona Town Pork Belly, Chicken Fried Spam, and Lobster Tempura Gravy Fries, plus a 6-ounce Lush Lunch Infamous Brewing draft pull. The burger’s name is a nod to the band Slightly Stoopid, a favorite of Culinary Director Lance Fegen.

For this unforgettable meal, visit one of Liberty Kitchen’s three Houston locations in the Heights, Uptown, or Memorial.

Paulie’s

A Montrose institution since the '90s, Paulie's offers some of the best homemade pasta, pizzas, and paninis around. Satisfy your Italian cravings alongside a glass of vino, and follow up your meal with Paulie's famous decorated shortbread cookies. They are the very definition of indulgent, with a perfectly sweet, buttery flavor.
